Focus on Students

New Education for the Workplaces (NEWCorp) has a history of partnering with organizations and programs that successfully reach students who were not able to succeed in the traditional classroom.

NEWCorp and its partners focus on serving a young adult student population. Students are ethnically diverse and low-income. Most importantly, these students are seeking positive change in their lives through the enrollment in Job Corps, SIATech, and other NEWCorp-related programs. Despite significant challenges in their personal lives and in the academic setting in the past, these students have made a commitment to learning, training, and preparing for higher education and the workplace.
